RAYMOND RECORDER

No. 14 Vol. 1 Thursday, June 15, 1950

Monday will be another very important day for the Lions Club of Raymond — the induction day of the new officers for the year 1950-51. Herbe Wilde will hand over the reins of government to new president, Rayo Woolf. Then a whole new slate of committees will have to be drawn up.

Calf Club

The members of the Calf Club are very busy grooming their sturdy baby beavers for the final big show in Lethbridge during the Agricultural Show and Stampede held there the last week in June. The Lions Club has procured some very attractive trophies to award for outstanding merit in our own local section of the Club. The winners of these awards will be announced in the near future. The calves and all the Club members will go to Lethbridge for the entire three day show. The boys and girls will be entertained there by members of the sponsoring Service Clubs. The calves will be judged there and then a big sale by auction will dispose of every calf in the division. You people interested in calves, or in lovely steaks, or in boys and girls of the future, or in community enterprises should plan to attend this sale and support the local Clubs — especially do we expect to see some Lions.

The Big Convention

The District Convention at Missoula, Montana, is being held this week-end. Our District is distinguished this year by entering International Lions politics. One of our very prominent Lions, Ray Welter of Great Falls is running for the office of International Councilor. He is well known in Southern Alberta and Montana and is a very good choice. Many Lions will remember him as District Governor here a couple of years ago. It will take a great deal of work to put him over at Chicago next month. Our own District 7 of Alberta and Northern Montana has only 97 clubs with 4,374 Lion members to compete against much larger District.

Stampede

Have you got that float planned yet for the big parade on the 1st of July? Come on folks, this is your big advertising show — let Southern Alberta know what you stand for and something about your business, church, club, family or school. When Grant asks you what you are doing and what section you plan to join, have your answer ready and have it positive — negative or passive attitudes in Raymond are keeping it a second-rate town — let us be the first town in Alberta this year. Start now! Don't go backwards or stand still. Progress!

The Stampede Committee held a meeting on Monday night at the John Deere office and organized the following Committees: Tickets, Murray Holt; Trophies, Delbert Thompson; Dance, M. T. King; Races, Reg Cooper. Jack Evans was re-appointed Sec.-Treas. of the Raymond Stampede Association.

A work day was organized for Fri. June 16 to repair the grounds at the stampede arena. There are corals to

Commencement Exercises

"One thousand years from now you will be your own reward — stripped of your wealth, your possessions, you will be the result of your choices — you will be what you have chosen to be." So said Howard Salisbury in his Commencement Address given last Friday night to a capacity crowd in the Second Ward Chapel. He went on to say that no person could call himself mature who did not control his emotions. Possessiveness and creativeness are man's strongest urges and when society gets to the point where creativeness is forced out by possessiveness, then social disintegration has set in. He urged the graduates to choose wisely so that their lives will be creative.

Toward this end he mentioned four things to do: 1. to read, 2. to see, 3. to hear, 4. to serve the right cause. In addition to Mr. Salisbury's address the program, with Douglas Litchfield as Master of Ceremonies, consisted of:

O Canada ... Led by Mrs. Velma Reid
Invocation ... William Nalder
Address of Welcome ... G'loria Veen
Piano Duet ... Pat Strong and Barbara Wing
Where they are ... Gordon Cooper
Valedictory ... Lorin Mendenhall
Vocal Solo ... Laurie Harker
Introduction of Graduates ... Mamoru Sugimoto, Rex Erickson and Carolyn Taylor
Presentations ... Mrs. Laqua and Miss Steed
The Graduation March and Organ Reveries were played by Hazel Fairbanks.

The Graduation Dance, sponsored by the School Board was held in the Opera House later in the evening. (For the list of graduates see page 3)

—Author unknown but it is suspected that local high school students could make his identity known.

After the Seminary program on Sunday night in the Stake House a farewell party was held in honor of Tom Holmes who has since left to fill a mission in Eastern Canada. The speakers of the evening were Tom's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Holmes, his grandfather, T. T. Mendenhall, Bishop J. O. Hicken and Tom. A musical selection was played by Jean and Joan Holmes. Best wishes are accorded Tom on his mission.

R A A A Track Meet

A large entry list is expected for the 4th Annual Track and Field Meet to be held here on Saturday. This Meet is sponsored by the Raymond Amateur Athletic Association with a former track and field star, Dr. Harris Walker, as Chairman of this special committee. There are about 65 trophies for annual competition in almost a full line of events (some senior events excepted) for classes including boys and girls under fourteen and men's and ladies' open.

Entries from Calgary, Claresholm, Cardston, Magrath, Glenwood, Taber, Coaldale, Lethbridge and many other points have been received and many more are expected. Dorothy Renfrew from Coaldale will be on hand to defend all the trophies she won last year in the ladies' open. And other performers such as Don Pettie of Calgary who represented Canada in the British Empire Games in Australia may repeat last year's visit as well as our own Pete Whitbeck who has made quite a name for himself in the U.S. as a track man. With such stars and a few up-and-coming young athletes the directors of this meet expect to see some Provincial records broken.

All local competitors are requested to file their entry forms as early as possible with either Dee Rolson or Barker Selman to avoid being ruled ineligible on Saturday.

The trophies are now on display in the Mercantile window.

Grove Eveson of LaGrande, Oregon accompanied by his father, C. Eveson of Salt Lake City arrived here recently to visit at the L. M. Adams home for a few weeks.

United Church Notes

The United Church here was filled to capacity on Sunday as a result of the Special service that was held. An eighteen voice choir, composed of members from Magrath, Raymond and Spring Coulee was present. The choir with Mrs. Grant as accompanist travelled with Rev. Ward on his round to the other two Churches to sing for this occasion.

Fourteen members of the Young Peoples group went to Lethbridge to attend the Southern Alberta Young Peoples Rally that was held in Southminster Church last Thursday. Approximately 100 Young People from all points in Southern Alberta met for a very enjoyable evening of social entertainment, films, talks and a luncheon. The theme of the meeting was "Summer Camp".

A good time was had by all.

ROTE SPOKES

Monday noon, June 12, saw the local Roters gather in the Legion Hall for their usual weekly meeting. Having been wined and dined in the usual grand manner by the Ladies Auxiliary and having no special program arranged, they proceeded to dispatch several odds and ends of business that have been hanging fire for some time.

Industry in the West

Just what does industry contribute to a medium sized city in western Canada where the natural emphasis is on the grain farmer?

The Saskatoon, Sask., branch of the Canadian Manufacturing Association wanted to find out and, when the replies from a questionnaire sent to member industrialists were tabulated the results were, to say the least, pleasantly surprising.

The survey covered most of the larger firms which belong to the Assn. in Saskatoon, and here is the record of industrial progress in a city most people associate mentally with wheat: 29 firms have a capital investment in buildings and equipment of $6,468,677; have 1,473 employees and total annual payroll of $3,415,179; pay collective business and property taxes of $71,895; and pay $233,323 for power, light and water.

On the basis of 1,473 employees of the 29 firms mentioned and three to four persons comprising the average family, it is estimated that ten per cent of Saskatoon's 50,000 population is dependent on the payrolls of these few C.M.A. member firms.

The survey showed that the average earnings of these firm's employees were at a much higher level than the average for the entire Canadian labor force in 1949. They earned an average of $2,300, but these payroll figures tell only half the story as far as Saskatoon is concerned. These industries are large buyers from Saskatoon and nearby suppliers of materials and services and thus help to maintain other Saskatoon businesses employing many more men.

Population Mounting

Canada's population rose 59,000 in the three month period from December 1, 1949 to March 1st this year to reach 13,766,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated last month.

Obviously, at this birth and immigration rate, it will be but a matter of months before Canada tops the four-teen million mark.

Visionaries behold the day when Canada, already an industrial, agricultural and economic power, will be political power by virtue of a population in some semblance of proportion to her land mass. This, however, is a subject for the economists to debate. Will Canada ever be that populous and can the country's natural resources tolerate such a population?

Water Users

The Town is attempting to supply everyone with enough water for domestic use, lawns, flowers and a small garden. This will be possible if water is not wasted.

The Water By-Law allows one sprinkler for each service with an opening not exceeding one quarter (1/4) inch. Open hose are not allowed.

Those breaking these regulations are liable to a fine and to have their water service shut off.

Editorial

By permission of the author we print an editorial from the current issue of the High School paper, "Hi-Times".

There was an embarrassing silence. Art Chapman, the great Victoria Basketball player had just sat down. During his speech he had made the remark that never in all his life had he heard more profanity than among the young boys on the streets of this town. There we were, proud to be playing this west coast team, proud of our town and desiring above all to have them leave with a good impression of Raymond.

You may not agree with him but you will admit that cursing is a sure sign of language deficiency. Lacking adequate vocabulary they attempt to fill in with a coarse torrent.

It is usually the companion of an inferiority complex. If you don't feel equal to your companions you inflate your ego by shooting off an uncontrolled torrent. Then there is the boy who swears cause he think it makes him a big-shot—especially with the girls. This makes a vivid impression alright but usually it is one of disgust or resentment. The person who really makes the hit is the one who uses self-control and consideration for other's feelings.

Self-control, so important on the basketball floor, is weakened by uncontrolled cursing. Team mates are disturbed and angered—this helps to bring defeat.

If you value your self-respect, you cannot afford this emotional spree.

Bonnie View Ball Team

The Bonnie View softball team is still undefeated with six games tucked away. Latest victims to fall to the Ray Depew gang were the First Ward (or Fisher's Ghosts), the Fourth Ward (poor us) and the Stirling team. They play Magrath Second Ward on Thursday and are out for another win. Good luck fellows!

"Daddy Aimed Me"

A Father's Day Message

A fire broken out in the night in a house in the Maritimes and the father of the house roused his wife and two children. The mother escaped down through the flaming stairs with her baby in her arms but the father and his boy were trapped in an attic room. The father prevented the child from getting into a panic as they waited for the Fire Truck to arrive. Then it came down the street, and the two watched as a big net was spread below the window. The son stood on the sill while his father directed him how to jump. After the boy was safely extracted from the net, the father too, jumped to safety. When the lad was asked if he had been afraid to jump he said, "Oh, no, Daddy aimed me!"

"Daddy aimed me"—the little boy had supreme confidence in his father. To most small boys, their father is their hero on ordinary days—and in a crisis, if Dad can keep cool, son is sure that things will turn out all right.

Fathers "aim" or guide their children in many ways. One of the loveliest tributes to a father was written by Julien Green whose father died when Julien was a young man. This was written in later years:

"He was the kindest and most considerate of fathers, and I had great reason to mourn him. But it took a number of years and a much greater experience of life than I had then for me to realize that he was one of the best men I have ever known. When I was a boy, I took it for granted that all men were as honest as he was and had as great a heart; I had much to learn."

Occasionally, a father who has been particularly successful in his business or profession, is determined that his son should follow in his footsteps. This cuts across each person's right and responsibility to choose his own life's work. The very pressure put on some youngsters to take up some particular vocation, is likely to make the average independent adolescent look with distaste on that type of work.

A father colors a child's scale of values. The ideas of right and wrong, the standard of values of one generation are influenced by the parent's example. If a father measures success only by the money yardstick, and not in terms of service to the community, he should not be surprised if his children develop a materialistic outlook on life! In this field of vocational guidance, a father should hesitate to do his son's thinking for him!

There are many cynical remarks about the father's role in the modern family. The French have a saying, "A father is a banker provided by nature." But father should be much more than the bread winner in the family.

If the mother sees the marriage as an adventure in comradeship, and the raising of children as a co-operative enterprise, both parents share responsibility. Father can indeed, in a very vital way, help his son or daughter in the slow growth toward maturity.

Father sees much less of his family than mother, but his example, nevertheless is a potent force. The broken homes, the separations, the divorces, the quarrel which end in the court room are not representative of the quality of living in countless families.

Many a father works quietly and steadily, sacrificing for his children's education and denying himself many pleasures. No real father looks on himself as a martyr! He knows that one of the greatest satisfactions life can bring to any man is to watch a son or daughter develop along the right lines. Fathers as well as mothers realize that.

Victor Hugo wrote in all truth when he said:

"A house is built of logs and stone. Of tiles and posts and pier. A home is built of loving deeds, That stand a thousand years".

Thanks—

Visionaries and economists aside, I believe in a policy of selective immigration into Canada of both agricultural and industrial workers, limiting in numbers to what from time to time appears to be the absorptive capacity of the country, and by practical considerations of transport and establishment. This is a sensible policy.

A Tribute to Rotary in the Spectator, London, England

The following is from "A Spectator's Notebook" in the issue of May 5:

"Through circumstances not immediately material here, I found myself considerably mixed up last week-end with Rotary International's annual conference. Rotary, a most admirable movement, initiated in Chicago in 1905, is not as well known as it deserves to be, though there are Rotary Clubs in some seven hundred towns and cities in the United Kingdom. The feature of them is that membership is confined to one representative only of every trade and profession, though rather fine shades of classification admit of larger numbers than might be expected on this basis. Weekly luncheons followed by speeches or discussions are the chief outward sign of activity, but in fact, Rotary actively inculcates high ideals for both in individual and corporate life—particularly in the field of industrial and corporate life—especially industrial and international relations and as between trader and customer. Fellowships are provided for the exchange of students between this country and America, and the Rotary badge (Rotary because the first few members in Chicago held their meetings in each other's offices in rotation) in the form of a miniature wheel gives a Rotarian the entree to any other Rotary Club he may come across in his travels at home or abroad. Rotary knows no political or religious distinctions; it seems to be filling an important and increasingly valuable place in national life."

Shorter Notes

There has been a good deal of news lately about the diet of healthy rats. This column may have pointed out before, and hopes to point out again, that nobody has yet defined what true health is, either in human beings or in rats. It is certain that giant and well-fed rat dies of heart trouble at about half the age of an ill-fed and "unhealthy" rat; this can be (and has been proved in simple tests. Assuming that human beings are really rats (which is something not even the wildest rat-lover has yet established), it might seem that it is a very unhealthy thing to get too healthy. Other questions will readily occur to the curious. For example, can it be shown that an overstuffed rat is any smarter than one which by hunger, illness and other worries has been forced to think things over?

Until next week then, this is your Rote Reporter who warns that, even if you are on the right track, you'll get run over if you just sit there!

Mrs. Emma Woolley was a patient in the local hospital for a few days this week.

Weddings

Jensen - Wright

In the presence of relatives and close friends wedding vows were exchanged between Mildred, daughter of Mr. J. Wright, and Brent eldest son of Mrs. Mary Jensen and the late Art Jensen, Friday evening in the beautifully decorated Stake Relief Society Room.

Bishop William Jensen, uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony.

A reception was held in the Recreation Hall immediately following the ceremony.

Amid a background of pink and white streamers, bouquets of spring flowers the bridal party received the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Galbraith, Mrs. Rhea Jensen, Mrs. Mary Jensen and Mr. Joe Thompson were in the receiving line.

The bride was beautiful in her long satin and lace wedding gown. The full skirt was accented by wide rows of lace. The sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves were the outstanding features of the bodice. Her floor-length embroidered veil was caught and held in place by a crystal bead-studded coronet. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of red roses with a white ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Rose Marie Wright and Lois Helgeson. Rose Marie chose a bengaline gown with hip poppins while Lois wore a daffodil nylon gown featuring shoulder and skirt ruffles. They wore matching chapel veils with flower coronets and carried bouquets of carnations.

The best man was Basil Wright, brother of the bride.

The bridegroom's mother wore an afternoon dress of beige jersey with a pink rose corsage.

Mrs. Mary Nelson was in charge of the guest book while the girls who once worked with Mildred at the factory received and arranged the many beautiful gifts.

Mrs. Irene Bowden, Mrs. Lettie Litchfield and Mrs. Lizzie McLean served the refreshments.

A three-tiered wedding cake was displayed on a lace tablecloth amid a setting of carnations and smilax flanked on either side by tall tapers. Melvin King was Master of Ceremonies for the program which consisted of two songs by Earl Hancock, a duet by Grace Selman and Maxine Dahl, a reading by Mrs. Virginia Rolfs, son a solo by Joe McLean and a trio by Billy Mehew, Meba Mehew and Gen Hawkins.

The bride's travelling costume was a powder blue gabardine suit with pink accessories complimented by a corsage of sweetheart roses.

The young couple motored to Spokane and points south for their honeymoon. Upon their return they will make their home in their new house here.

Wednesday afternoon a group of about 45 dignitaries from both Canada and the United States stopped here for a few minutes on their tour of Southern Alberta in connection with the International Joint Commission on Water Rights.

General A. G. L. McNauhton was a member of the party.
